THE GERMANS MUST FLATTEN;
POSSIBILITY OF A NEW WAR

Evidently with no intention of "blowing on the embers of the fires of war," observers of world conditions are pointing out that in the event the present Allied conference refuses to make the Germans pay their war indemnity, French armies will march on Berlin. The French, by calling Briand to the premiership, have served notice on the world and on the German Republic, that the war debt must be paid and the German army disbanded according to the Versailles treaty. Neither of these two things have been accomplished. The Germans have solemnly promised to repay France for destroying all of Northern France. They have also promised to muster their army out of service.

During the present Allied conference the French officials will call attention to these things and demand speedy action. One thing overlooked by many is that the longer France remains unpaid, the stronger Germany will become. If the payment of the war debt is put off long enough, Germany will be rebuilt at the expense of France. In other words, Frenchmen have determined that their factories shall start before those of Germany. They have resolved that their fields shall bring forth harvests before those of Germany.

As the creditors, they claim that the money due them shall be paid before the debtor nation is allowed to set itself up in business again. This question as to whether France or Germany shall be the preferred creditor when war debts begin to be paid is the bone of contention. This question caused the fall of the Leygues cabinet and the setting up of the Briand cabinet in France. Because England and this country expect to get little or nothing further from Germany as a war settlement, it is to the financial interest of these nations to encourage revival of business relations with Germany regardless of whether or not France ever gets her money. Then there is the fact that until all of Europe gets to going in a business way, there is little chance of Germany or any other country to pay debts. It is pointed out by those who view the problem from this standpoint that in their opinion Germany cannot possibly pay the French until business is humming all the way from the great cities of Russia to Spain. France replies to this argument that Germany was practically untouched by war in comparison to the devastation wrought in France, and that Germany can better afford to pay her debts than France can to wait longer for the payment.

The present Allied conference will see this matter brought to a show-down. When the statesmanship of Europe has wrestled with it, until the French people are fearful, no solution is to be reached favorable to them, they may take the matter in their own hands and settle it "locally," so to speak, by starting Foch to Berlin.

If such a threat is made in dead earnest, the absolute importance of preserving peace in Europe will be felt so keenly that the "statesmen" in the Allied conference are apt to make another try at a settlement agreeable to France and be successful. It is unthinkable that another great war will be allowed in Europe at this time.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN AND SOME OF HIS WISDOM

January 17 was the 215th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, in Boston, Mass. He was the 17th child of a poor tallow candle maker. At an early age he went to Philadelphia to seek his fortune. The story of how Franklin ate part of his purchase of three loaves of bread as he walked the streets beholding the wonders of the city of brotherly love, and of how he was laughed at by a pretty girl whom he afterwards married, is familiar to most people. He worked for a time for his brothers, who were printers, and began his literary career by furnishing them anonymous stories and wise sayings, which to his great delight he found they would print from time to time.

Franklin mastered a number of trades, callings and professions. He has been declared by many as the most versatile and intellectual man this country ever produced. He was an expert printer, journalist, inventor, a great statesman, a wise diplomat and a true philosopher. His tact and eloquence before the French court, where he was sent to ask aid during the struggle of his country for freedom against King George III, brought Lafayette and Raichampbeau to the support of General Washington's hard pressed armies. And but for Franklin's success many historians say that the cause of the Revolution would have been lost. Franklin first brought the "juice" from a thunder and lightning cloud, and thus made the beginning of the electrical age in which we now live.

He was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and is reported to have advised his fellow signers: "Now we must hang together or hang separately." The great man lived to the ripe age of 84, and throughout his long life was strong on advice. Some of his wise sayings as contained in "Poor Richard's Almanac," which he personally edited for 26 years, are as follows:

Temperance—Eat not to dullness; drink not to elevation.

Silence—Speak not but what may benefit others or yourself; avoid trifling conversation.

Order—Let all your things have their place.

let each part of your business have its time.
Resolution—Resolve to perform what you ought; perform without fail what you resolve.
Frugality—Make no expense but to do good to others or yourself; waste nothing.
Industry—Lose no time; be always employed in something useful.
Sincerity—Use no hurtful deceit; think innocently and justly and, if you speak, speak accordingly.
Justice—Wrong none by doing injuries, or omitting the benefits that are your duty.
Moderation—Avoid extremes; forbear resenting injuries so much as you think they deserve.
Cleanliness—Tolerate no uncleanness in body, clothes or habitation.
Tranquility—Be not disturbed at trifles, or at accidents common or unavoidable.
Humility—Imitate Jesus and Socrates.

FINANCIAL AND BUSINESS CON-DITIONS IN THE UNITED STATES

From many competent sources in widely separated sections comes the opinion that the United States has now definitely entered upon its return to normal conditions. The average business man has come to see that a continuance of war-time prosperity, with its attendant circumstances of credit inflation, high wages, high prices, reckless spending and public and private waste, is impossible. He has come to see also that the black pessimism of a few months ago is unjustified by an intelligent estimate of the economic situation. Worry and fear have given way to clear judgment and courage. The disposition now is to face the facts calmly and to make such use of them as accords with the peculiar initiative and enterprise of our people. Judge Gary refers to the phenomenon of the better "temper of business men." Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board calls it "a more normal state of mind." Others have their own expressions, but all agree that the prevailing feature of the business outlook is just now the change that has come over the mental processes of business men.

Nothing has happened to bring about this change, except possibly the failure of some of the dire predictions that have been agitating the country, particularly in recent months. Those who have from the beginning held that fundamental and not ephemeral factors would determine the course of economic events in the country have never thought that there was imminent danger of any such collapse as was forecast in quarters less well informed or less capable of interpreting conditions. Their attitude seems now to be justified by the country's change of spirit rather than by any turn of events. It may be added that there could not possibly be a better foundation for an actual revival of business.—Guaranty Trust Company of N. Y.

BIG MERCHANT IS BUYING NOW

That the bottom has been reached in wholesale prices of all merchandise is the belief of the officials of the American Wholesale Corporation, a concern doing an annual business of $50,000,000. So strongly do these officials believe this that the president and thirty buyers of the corporation are in New York for the avowed purpose of purchasing $5,000,000 worth of goods to replenish their stocks.

The president of this gigantic company expresses the belief that all merchandise, with the exception of foods, has touched the bottom. When asked why he did not wait longer to make his purchases on the theory that there would be a further price drop, he replied:

"We took our loss, which was rather heavy, and cut our stocks down in short order. We're now in the market for all kinds of merchandise except food. America's business is like unto an automobile without gasoline. Buyers must buy from manufacturers to keep the wheels of industry moving. In my opinion, goods have reached the lowest level and you can expect an upward trend from now on."

To be sure, this man may be mistaken, but the fact that he is at the head of such a corporation gives his word the weight of authority on this subject. If his example be followed by the country at large, there will be a quick recovery in commerce and industry, and the era of prosperity which is just ahead will be upon us before we had expected it. At any rate, it is the time to buy, but the buying should not be on the extravagant and haphazard scale employed a year or so ago.—Gadsden Journal.

When our shoes wear out, we will all be on our feet.

The man who can run a car and also his wife will always be busy.

Second avenue and Bank street will have to be widened, so as to furnish sufficient parking space for automobiles.

If Charles M. Schwab does not quit weeping in public, the paragraphers will call him "Sob Schwab." Charlie did not take the $100,000, however, Mr. Morris, or who ever he was, to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Wonder what Mr. Harding would consider "normalcy" in skirts and dancing.

Delegates Appeal
For a Revaluation

During the closing hours of the cotton convention of the American Cotton Association yesterday a resolution was unanimously adopted calling upon Governor Kilby and the state tax commission to order a general revaluation of property in Alabama. The resolution was reported by the committee on resolutions and when Senator J. A. Rogers, temporarily presiding, put the question there was a loud chorus of ayes.

Determined to extricate themselves from the financial hole into which they were thrown last fall by the drop in prices of farm commodities, about two hundred members of the Alabama division of the American Cotton Association in special convention here adopted resolution putting into effect in their organization the systematic plan for diversified farming prepared by the extension service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

In addition, the convention endorsed the continuation of plans for the construction of a system of banded warehouses for the concentration of cotton and other commodities while being held for better prices.

The extension plan for diversified farming provides that the farmers shall have six acres of mory of cotton for each horse, but that all arrangements must also be worked out for the growing of sufficient food and food crops for the feeding of the families of those dependent on the farm as well as the feeding of the horses and other live stock. There is a different plan for each sub-division of the state in order that peculiar condition may be met, and the best results obtained.

Every large foreign and domestic corporation operating in Alabama under exemptions from taxation granted by the code of 1907 and the revenue act of 1919 will be required to pay the state a franchise tax if the state wins test cases against the ship-building companies of Mobile which are scheduled to come before the Mobile circuit court this week and for the trial of which J. O. Smith, attorney-general has gone to Mobile.

An act passed by the legislature at the regular session in 1919 which increased the salary of the judge of the inferior court of Calhoun county from $1,200 to $1,800 a year was held to be unconstitutional by the supreme court today. However, the legislature corrected the law at the special session of 1920 by abolishing the inferior court and creating a court of common pleas.

The supreme court held that the judge of the inferior court came within the section of the constitution which prohibits the legislature from increasing or diminishing the salary of a state, county or municipal employee for the term for which he was elected. The decision was in the case of E. D. Willet versus John P. Weaver, acting treasurer, from the Calhoun circuit court.

Five applicants for licenses to practice medicine in Alabama at the recent examination of the state board of medical examiners were successful, according to announcement of the board. Those permitted to enter the practice as a result of the examination are H. D. McDougal and Leroy T. Kincaid of Birmingham, B. E. Marshall of Axis, Mobile county, J. O. Wilke of Madison and L. G. Wood.

HOW TO MAKE REAL FRIEND

Be One—Friendship Cannot Be Half-Sided and Is Not Won by Standing Aloof.

Often you come across people who complain that they have but few friends. They will point to other persons who have many and wonder why such a distinction is made.

The matter is easy enough to explain, for, as some one has well said, the only way to have a friend is to be one.

For friendship cannot possibly be a one-sided matter. Just as it takes two to make a bargain or a quarrel, so does it take the same number to make a friendship.

No one can stand aloof from others, waiting to be sought, without experiencing keen disappointment. This because friendships are not made that way. People do not look you over, as you stand off by yourself and say:

"Now, there's some one I'd like to know. I'll make a point to draw him or her out and take all the pains possible to establish a friendship."

That's not the way it happens in real life, although some still imagine that it is. What really happens is this: Two persons meet, and gradually they find points of congeniality, gradually each does little favors for the other, gradually a feeling of affection takes root in each heart.

Neither one is thinking of what can be gained from the acquaintance; rather, each is thinking and planning to give instead of take. In other words, each is trying to be a friend unselfishly. And, lo! it is the very thing which makes their friendship.

Bear that in mind if you happen to be among those who lament their scarcity of friends.

ARE MARVELS OF INGENUITY

Observations in the Garden Reveal Really Remarkable Work Done by Small Creatures.

There is no better place than a garden to study insects. The dark-colored beetle—the oil-beetle—may be observed, and as soon as the bees come the larva of this beetle contrives to get upon a bee's body, so as to be carried away to the bee's home, where it feeds upon the food there, and eventually leaves as a perfect beetle.

Other kinds of beetles act as grave diggers; certain ants keep a diary, and there are masons, carpenters, and upholsterers among the bees. The mason-bee constructs its cell of mortar. By dropping saliva on bits of earth and mixing both together it pounds the mixture into a sort of cement. It works this into the shape of a mold, inside which the female deposits her egg. Several such mortar cells may often be found lying close together.

The carpenter-bee makes its house on decayed wood, and lines it with pieces of leaves, which it cuts off in the form of a circle, and adjusts so skillfully that its nest is made water-tight without any coating. A very ingeniously-constructed home is also that of the upholsterer-bee, which dexterously cuts out the petals of the half-expanded flowers of a poppy. It then strengthens the folds, and fits them so that a splendid tapestry overhangs the walls of its home in which the honey is deposited.

In Summer's Calendar

IT IS a foregone conclusion that taffeta frocks for formal and informal dress will add to the charms of women during the spring and summer to come. Taffetas we have always with us in fascinating developments, but the changeable weaves have been revived and the field of their usefulness widened in consequence. Besides, for dressy afternoon wear, taffetas are beautifully combined with nets, laces and georgette, while less formal models employ braid, trimmings made of the silk, embroidery and other decorations.

The pretty new model shown in the picture stands between a suit and a dress, and commends itself to those who are looking for an all-day frock. Among the spring frocks, as in winter ones, there are those that must be cross-examined before they can be placed in the right class, the one-piece dresses often bearing a close resemblance to suits, as in the case of the model pictured here. It is a charming style and a safe investment, for it is made of black taffeta trimmed with white soutache braid—a perennial favorite in materials and color combination. The mesh of taffeta is lined with white satin, and there is a vest to it. In this particular dress the tulle is short—one of those exceptions that proves the rule.

Black taffeta is used as a foundation for charming dresses in which white lace makes the overdress. Colored nets—with green a favorite—are featured on the dressier afternoon frocks and changeable taffetas figure in the displays for both day and evening wear.

Moose Factory, Where Lost Aeronauts Landed

A scene at Moose Factory, Ontario, near which the three naval aviators, Lieutenants Hinton, Kibor and Farrell, landed after the naval balloon in which they started from Rockaway on December 13, was driven by storms into the snow-bound forests of Canada. Moose Factory is one of the northernmost trading posts of the Hudson's Bay company.

COTTON MARKET OPENING IS WEAK

PRICES RMALLY AFTER INITIAL LOSS WHEN OFFERINGS ARE ABSORBED

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Weakness at Liverpool caused a decline of 13 to 23 points at the opening of the cotton market today. There was selling for Liverpool and spot houses here, which was absorbed by Wall street interests and brokers identified with Japanese houses. Prices rallied a little from initial levels and at the end of the first 15 minutes were about 15 points under last night's close.

Horse Chestnut.
It is said that the name horse chestnut was derived from the fact that when the leaves of the tree fall there is a scar left on the twig in the shape of a horse shoe that bears marks resembling the nails of a shoe.

Pigmy Pigs.
The smallest known species of hog are the pigmy swine of Austria. They are exactly like other hogs in every particular except size, being no longer than a good-sized house rat.

Designs of Persian carpets have been handed down from remote ages.

WHEN NATURE COLORS THE CHEEKS

She Applies it From Within, Not From Outside

Pepto-Mangan, Nature's Beautifier
It is the Coloring Matter of Pure Blood That Makes a Good Complexion

Beauty is more than skin deep. No one can have a clear, delicate skin, glowing with health, if the blood is impure or lacking in the vital necessary iron that gives the coloring matter to the "life fluid". Neglect of regular and necessary waste elimination, helps to render the blood impure and reduce its iron contents. The best cosmetic in the world is pure, healthy, iron-rich blood.

Doctors, realizing the importance of enriching and improving the blood, have for years prescribed Gude's Pepto-Mangan, the pleasant and proved blood builder and tonic.

Pepto-Mangan contains just the elements needed to change thin, watery blood to good, red blood. Pepto-Mangan builds rich, red blood, enabling it to carry strength and vigor to every part of the body.
Gude's Pepto-Mangan has become so well known, by reason of doctors recommending it, that you can get it in tablet or liquid form at any drug store. Instead of trying to cover up a poor complexion, get a bottle of Gude's Pepto-Mangan and note how soon you feel better, sleep, work harder, play with more zest—and how your skin and complexion are improving.

Only make sure to get the genuine. It has "Gude's" on the package.—Adv.

PRISONERS MEET TO SOLVE CRIME PROBLEM IN WEST

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—With the solution of society's age-old problem come from the inside of the stone walls of institutions erected by society to guard itself against the cancer of crime and criminals.

One of the most remarkable meetings ever held anywhere presages this possibility. It was a gathering of the 1,200 prisoners of St. Quentin, California's grim structure of white stone, nestling along the sunny shores of San Rafael.

The meeting—one of the regular weekly gatherings held by the prisoners without the presence of guards—set itself to the consideration of its own problems and those of half a million more men and women confined in penal institutions of the United States.

The California Legislature now has before it a measure which would abolish the indeterminate sentence law.

This topic brought the question of a solution of one of the questions which have baffled sociologists and peace officers alike before the men whose careers have caused society to set them apart and restrain their liberty.

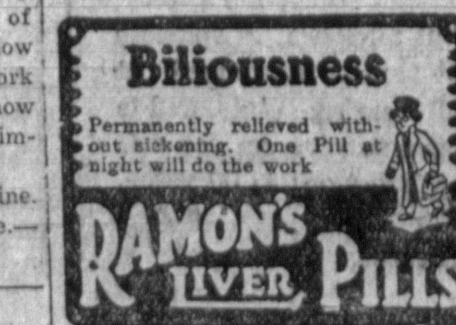

The discussion was free and it was the consensus of opinion of the gathering that a constructive plan be offered prison officials and the Legislature as a solution of the problem of handling crime and criminals.

The best minds within the institution, and concededly there are many bright men there, today are working on the plan.

No great sympathy was expressed by any of the speakers for the hard-end criminal during the meeting, these present stated. But to those to whom confinement has brought a new light hope was held out. What shape the proposed plan will take will be determined at later meetings.

Fred T. Eldridge, chairman of the meeting, delivered the keynote of the meeting and declared that ignorance was the root of all social evil. Statistics, he said, show that 75 per cent of all crimes are committed by persons who have never seen the inside of a penal institution.

"Does it not," he asked, "render a terrible indictment against the past and present reformatory system in vogue and prove conclusively that modifications of a higher quality must be introduced and maintained before any results worthy of consideration can be accomplished with men who have had the misfortune to be sent to a State Prison?"

The use of "Uncle Sam" to typify the United States was first employed in Troy, N. Y., in 1812.

Licenses for all Business, Trades, Occupations and Professions, for the year 1921 are Due and payable.

DRUG BUSINESS IS ENJOYING BIG BOOM

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The prohibition responsible for big growth in the drug business in the United States.

Drugs, out of a long list of business groups, stand alone as the only one showing a jump in volume of sales and future contracts.

Drug business is rapidly expanding, while other lines have been under depression, consequent to price readjustments, the Federal Reserve Board said today, in a survey of the business field.

Whiskey sales to retail druggists, by wholesalers legally permitted to withdraw liquor in huge amounts from bond and resell to the trade, account for part of the increase in drug business, officials said. In fact, they figured it is responsible for a very substantial amount of this increase. The Board had no figures to show

MANY WILL LOSE JOBS IN CAPITAL

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—This town of Government job holders is making ready for the most spectacular entry of a new President the country has known for many moons.

The grand "slush" in Government red tape and personnel, as soon as Warren G. Harding takes over the reins, is the next big event on the calendar.

Pretty war workers, thousands of them, who grace all crevices of Government bureaus, soon will be wending their way back to the comfortable firesides they left when they came to Washington to help win the war.

Other thousands, including clerks of various classes who were taken on the Government payroll at the start of the war, in the rush to get war clerical help, are scheduled to thin the ranks of the Federal force here.

Maintenance of Government bureaus at near war strength, two years after the armistice, is arousing heated outbursts in Congress, and the new President and his Cabinet will co-operate with Congress in establishing greater efficiency and co-ordinating many branches, now loosely directed.

Nearly 80,000 men and women are still holding jobs in Government bureaus here, nearly double the pre-war force. The present administration has made no serious effort to bring many of the bureaus back to a peace time basis.

Fully 25,000 employees will be dropped and further reductions will be made gradually. Various bureaus doing the same work in scattered locations about Washington will be merged and the forces reduced, without reducing efficiency.

what proportion of the 28,000,000 gallons withdrawn last year went into "drug channels," but admittedly it was large. No figures were separately compiled to indicate the growth in the narcotic trade, but Treasury reports from various collectors' districts indicated that heavier revenues are coming in from that source, accounting in part possibly for some of the heavier business reported by the wholesale drug dealers.

Got the Real Thing

"For five long years I suffered with stomach trouble and what the doctors called gall stone colic, and all said nothing but an operation would do me any good. A friend who had taken your medicine advised me to try it, and I found it to be the real thing. I feel better than I have in eight years and I am praising God for Mayr's Wonderful Remedy." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. —S. M. Thompson in Albany and Owl Drug Co., in Decatur.—Adv.

GOOD ROADS MEET OFFICIALLY CALLET

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 28.—Special-Governor Chas. H. Brough, President and J. A. Rountree, Director-General of the United States Good Roads Association, have issued an official call that the Ninth Annual Convention of the United States Good Roads Association will meet in Greensboro, N. C., April 18th to the 23rd inclusive.

Governors, Probate Judges, Mayors, Presidents of Chambers of Commerce, Good Roads Associations, Automobile Clubs, Farmers Associations and other organizations interested in good roads have been requested to appoint delegates that will attend this convention, which promises to be the most important good roads convention that has been held in this country since the good roads agitation was started. The Bankhead Federal Aid Appropriation which every state in the union has been receiving on the fifty-fifty basis for the past eight years, will cease in June if this or the next Congress does not re-enact the measure. This convention will take steps to urge congress to pass the measure. Action endorsing a system of National Highways will be taken.

Already many distinguished men have accepted invitations to attend the convention and participate in the same.

The Association has members in every state in the Union and many of them have signified their intention of attending the meeting.

In connection with the meeting, the United States Good Roads Exhibit will be held, which will be confined to many new types of road building machinery and highway transportation equipment, road materials, machinery and equipment used in the construction and maintenance of roads and pavements. A select number of automobiles, trucks and tractors will also be shown.

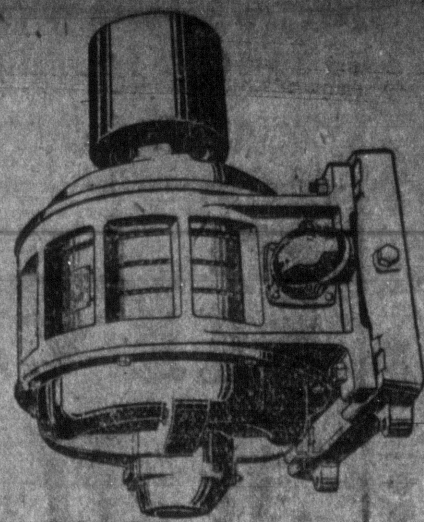

The Road Department at Washington has been requested and is expected to have an exhibit that is worth of the Government.

During "Good Roads Week" the Bankhead National Highway Association which has members in thirteen states will hold its fifth annual meeting in Greensboro. This association will have at least one thousand delegates in attendance. Invitations have been extended to other highway and subsidiary organizations to hold meetings and conferences during the week. Director-General Rountree, who has charge of the executive affairs of the United States Good Roads Association, the Bankhead National Highway Association, will go to Greensboro, N. C., early in February, with a staff of assistants, and open headquarters where he will remain for the next ninety days promoting these three great meetings.

Governor Brough, President of the United States Good Roads Association, expects to visit a number of the Governors in more than a dozen states, personally inviting them to attend the convention and deliver addresses to the same, also to see that good delegations attend the meeting from their respective states.
